Mrs. George B. Caldwell. (Photograph by O'Neill.)

Mrs. George B. Caldwell needs no introduction to present Musical Wheeling. She is notable in it, being an active member of the Woman's Musical Club, and leader of the Second Presbyterian church quartette choir. The subject of this sketch, was born in Accomac county, eastern Virginia, and as Miss Smith, was educated at the seminary in Little Washington, Pa. During the war, she met Colonel George B. Caldwell, now a prominent attorney of this city, and married him, since which time social, benevolent and musical wheeling has known her prominently. Mrs. Caldwell has a soprano voice of superior quality of tone and the advantage of knowing how to sing. Of recent years she is only heard in church music of her own volition, for her voice is as well adapted to either dramatic or lyric, and formerly was as delightfully listened to in those, as to-day in Oratorio, and would be again on the concert stage if she gave her consent to appear when requested. As prominent in benevolent organizations, Mrs. Caldwell is recognized throughout the city, and to-day is president of the King's Daughters of St. Matthew's P. E. church, the organization which, through her endeavor, is giving a spring series of promenade concerts in the McClure House parlors, for the sake of charity.

Socially, Mrs. Caldwell also leads. A captivating hostess to friend or stranger, an expert whist player and above all, the ideal mother, brings her in close contact with all ages of people. She has one son, Mr. Perry M. Caldwell, a civil engineer, now in Chicago, and two charming daughters, both favorites in Wheeling social circles. Miss Martha Dandridge Caldwell, the elder, was recently photographed in "Form," a Dempsey and Carroll publication, with the deserved tribute as "the beauty of Wheeling." Her social function being considered satisfactorily carried through without her presence. Miss Sue Caldwell, the younger, a very lovable girl, has inherited her mother's splendid voice; this, added to her sweet personal attractiveness, makes her a universal favorite. With her above encouragements to happiness, it is not to be wondered at that the Caldwell residence on Sixteenth street, is the rendezvous of society, and that the one whose portrait is here reproduced is looked upon as the ideal chaperon, at home and abroad, the friend of the young aspirant for social, entire, or for musical advancement. This latter is gratefully appreciated by members of the Woman's Musical Club, of which Mrs. Caldwell is the vice president.

The Woman's Musical Club gives its last recital of this, its second season, this afternoon. An unusually attractive programme is to close this club-work, after which all time will be devoted to preparation for the coming concert at Wheeling Park Casino, early in June.

The Oratorio Society place of public concert is not definitely determined, neither have the soloists been decided, but to-day it stands: Carl Duff, basso; J. H. McKinley, tenor; Genevieve Clarke Wilson, soprano; the alto to be taken from the society proper. The "instrumental" negotiations are on—the Opera House orchestra augmented. From present indications, the presentation of "St. Paul," as the society's second public venture, will be a surprise to many, who even claimed much for the young organization after its first appearance in "The Holy City." By the way, the first half of "The Holy City" will be sung by the vested choir at St. Matthew's, tomorrow morning, Mr. W. S. Clemens, tenor, doing the solo work.

Things coming—but to be discussed next week—at length: The Opera House orchestra concert, Mrs. Flora Williams and Mr. H. W. Hughes, vocal assistants; Wheeling Park Casino, May 10. The Philharmonic Quartet concert, Tuesday, May 11, Mrs. M. E. Whitaker, vocal assistant. The W. C. E. Sechock piano recital, Professor Edward Blumenberg, violin assistant, Thursday, May 14th.

By referring to the above calendar it will be noticed that the only happening of a public character the coming week, will be the organ recital at St. Matthew's church, on Thursday evening. Organist Paris H. Meyers will be assisted by the vested choir. The programme cannot be printed in full this morning, but will be a "Wely" study so to speak, all the instrumental work being that writer's compositions. The recital will be of about one hour's duration, a short, promptly moving programme, performed in an artistic manner.

"Organ music is polyphonic in its nature, and to fully appreciate its beauties a thorough knowledge of harmony is required, supplemented by constant practice in mentally tracing to their source the interludes of the various themes," says the musician, and whether these organ recitals can be made a

THE ADVENTURES

WAS THROWN FROM A BOX CAR

While the Circus was En Route From Zanesville to Wheeling Early Yesterday Morning—It Was the Train was Running Fifteen Miles an Hour, the Youngster was Unlucky—Made Himself at Home in a Car Yard, but was Finally Captured—A Shooting Scrape at the Circus Last Night—A Woman Wounded Slightly.

One of the attractions of the John Robinson-Franklin Brothers circus which showed over on the Island yesterday afternoon and last night, is a baby elephant that has been educated up to the tricks that amuse the youthful circus-goers.

When the show arrived in Wheeling from Zanesville yesterday morning, the baby elephant was not with the show.

He had taken his leave in a most unceremonious manner. This should not be taken to mean that his elephantine lordship wanted to leave his kink in elephant colony of the show. No, indeed, it was an involuntary journey that he had set out upon over in Guernsey county, near Spencer's station, about forty miles west of Wheeling.

It seemed that the elephants were rather unruly, and in some manner the door at the side of the car was opened, and young Mr. Elephant crowded out upon the cold and cheerless world at 3 a. m., with not even a geography or a compass to set him on the proverbial road to wealth and happiness.

But our young friend from East India wasn't at all discouraged. Though the train was running at the rate of fifteen miles an hour and his fall must have been violent, he got up after rolling down an embankment, not in the least injured, and began an Asiatic exploration of Darkest America—and it was dark as pitch, too.

Not far from the scene of his mishap, the youngster heard the early morning crowing of the fowls in a neighboring farm yard and proceeded to investigate. Floundering through fences and other devices to obstruct human poachers was "dead easy," for young Mr. Elephant so that very soon he was in the farm yard, where his remarkable appearance caused consternation and fright among the chickens, cows, pigs and other inhabitants of the Guernsey county agriculturalist's domain.

Soon the farmer was awakened, and he, too, was about as frightened as his farm-yard colony. But as the elephant did not seem to be especially vindictive—and was really, on the contrary, peaceably inclined—the farmer summoned enough courage to introduce himself.

The gentleman from Asia wasn't of a belligerent disposition and did not object to the advances of Mr. Farmer, which resulted to a visit to the barn. His highness had barely entered the barn when the farmer discovered he had business elsewhere and left, shutting the door behind him.

In other words he had the intruder imprisoned. The faithful prisoner didn't seem to mind all this and calmly began to make inroads on the farmer's grain and feed.

This was kept up until several hours later, when the search train, a locomotive and an open car, which had been sent back as soon as the loss of the young elephant was discovered by keepers, arrived at Spencer's station, and it was learned that the animal was safe and sound, without a scratch. Thereupon he was brought out of the barn and placed in the car. Then the train started for Wheeling, and arrived here shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

A Big Crowd Attended. The appearance of the first circus of the season, that of John Robinson and Frank Franklin, combined, was the occasion of two very large audiences.

In the afternoon the seating capacity was able to "accommodate" nearly all who attended, but at the evening performance the seating capacity was away under the crowd that crowded the big tent. There were not many country people in town as usual, but the city turned out last night more numerous than usual.

Of the show itself, it deserves all the good words that have been used in describing it in advance. Though not as large as some of the tented attractions that have been visiting Wheeling, it is made up of some of the "best people in the business," and high audiences were pleased with what they saw and heard. The acrobatic work, especially, was good.

A Young Woman Shot. A shooting scrape occurred on the Island last night at the conclusion of the circus performance, participated in by Frank Kline, Joseph Cruddas, William, and Maggie Cruddas. As a result the latter received a bullet in her leg above the ankle.

The shooting occurred on Zane street, near the entrance to the circus grounds, and the crowds pouring out from the "sea of canvas," were startled to hear a pistol shot ring out in the air. Officer Mason hurried to the scene and saw three men near the horse house struggling for the possession of a revolver. One man, Kline, was down, and the two Cruddas brothers were on him. The officer promptly arrested all three men, but it was nearly two hours later before it was discovered that anybody had been shot.

The three men were taken to the lock-up in the patrol wagon, and no satisfactory explanation of the affair could be elicited. It was thought that it was merely the outcome of a drunken row, and that the shot went wild. Questioning the prisoners failed to reveal as to who fired the revolver, and a charge of disorderly conduct was chalked up against them.

Shortly before midnight new light was shed on the difficulty, when a pale-faced girl, walking lame, and accompanied by a colored woman, walked into the police station, and timidly asked Lieut. Supler if she could see Kline. She explained to the obliging "Mac" that she wanted to get some money from Kline for a doctor, as she had been shot. To Captain Bennett she gave her version of the affair, and from her statement it appears that she was Kline's companion, and had accompanied him to the circus, much against the will of her brothers, who were bitter enemies of Kline for sometime past.

As Kline and Miss Cruddas were coming along the street, the two brothers jumped on him from behind, knocking down, and as he had previously been warned by the girl, he drew a revolver, but Kline, who was afterwards questioned by Capt. Bennett, said he did not know whether he pulled the trigger or not. Kline was allowed to go on his own recognition to appear before the mayor this morning, and he escorted Miss Cruddas to the office of Dr. W. R. Taylor, who extracted the bullet.

The revolver was a .22 calibre, and the bullet entered about three inches above the ankle. The injury is not of serious consequence.

All the parties reside in East Wheeling, and should the evidence in this morning's hearing justify it, the charge of disorderly conduct will be replaced by a more serious charge.

STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISES.

Pertinent Comments Regarding the Petition of the Wheeling & Elm Grove Road—The Question of Cheaper Fares. To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR:—I observe that Senator Whitaker and other respectable citizens have formed a company (the Suburban Electric Railway Company) for the purpose of building a new electric railway, which, if constructed along the lines indicated, will be, to some extent at least, in competition with the Wheeling & Elm Grove Company. I trust council will pass the ordinance and give this company what it asks under proper restrictions. I mean by proper restrictions that the ordinance should be guarded as to the manner of constructing and maintaining the road in the streets, and that the city should receive at the proper time and in the manner provided by the ordinance, fair compensation for the valuable franchise to be granted. I also observe that the Wheeling & Elm Grove Company want the use of certain streets and practically wish to occupy a portion of the ground covered by the ordinance asked by the Suburban Electric Railway Company.

The readers of the Intelligencer will remember that a few short years ago the Bridgeport, Bellaire and Martin's Ferry Railway Company wanted to enter this city and had a survey made and the ordinance prepared, but the Wheeling & Elm Grove Company objected. A meeting followed with the attorney and others of the Bellaire, Bridgeport & Martin's Ferry Railway Company. The Wheeling & Elm Grove Company said it would oppose in every way possible the proposed ordinance, unless the sections which referred to East Wheeling and the Peninsula cemetery were removed.

In order to silence this opposition, which seemed at the time to have a controlling interest in Council, the objectionable sections were removed, and notwithstanding this unreasonable request or demand was complied with, the company referred to, or those supposed to represent its interest, went back on their word and opposed and defeated the ordinance.

It is very strange, and worthy of notice, that the new ordinance which the Wheeling & Elm Grove Company now offers, is in many particulars like the one the Bellaire, Bridgeport and Martin's Ferry Company had framed, and in some instances uses the same route and in fact the same language. Queer is it not? The Wheeling & Elm Grove Company has secured the right from the county commissioners without limit, restrictions or price, to build its road to the state line. A very valuable right indeed, and one that covers valuable territory, but no effort is being made as yet to extend the road. Let this company first use the valuable franchises it has secured before it secures others for the sole purpose as it would seem to silence opposition by occupying rights on paper only.

The Wheeling & Elm Grove Company is doing a good business, but shows no disposition to cheapen its rates or accommodate the public. I can ride from the McClure House to Bellaire, over two costly bridges for ten cents. I can go from Renwood to the extreme northern limits of the city, a distance equal to the whole distance of the Wheeling & Elm Grove road, for five cents, and if I go to Steenrod's bridge on the Wheeling & Elm Grove road I must pay fifteen cents for the round trip.

I have no interest in either company, but I am one of those who believe that the Wheeling & Elm Grove Company has all the privileges from the county and city which it should have for some time to come, and it certainly should not be given the privilege for the sole purpose, as it would seem, to occupy territory that might be used by others in honest competition, thereby giving our citizens reasonable rates and better accommodations.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism. From the Fairhaven, (N. Y.) Register: Mr. James Rowland, of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy.

She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had no relief for her. She then sent for a physician, but he was not able to cure her. She then sent for a bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and she was cured. She says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by druggists.

IN THE NAVY DEPT.

Disbursing Officer Glad to Recommend Paine's Celery Compound.

No Department at Washington just now so absorbs the attention of the people as the splendidly-growing, formidable navy. It is not to the gold-laced Annapolis graduates that the brunt of the responsible work falls, but to the able Department officials, of whom Disbursing Officer F. H. Stickney is one.

A letter from him says: "Having taken Paine's celery compound for the last few weeks, I have found it a perfect spring remedy, and been much benefited by it." Spring is the decisive time in the life of every person out of health. It is an assured fact that stubborn disorders become quickly curable in the spring. This is especially true of such persistent troubles as rheumatism, neuralgia and obstinate kidney diseases.

No one, sick or well, can afford to "try" uncertain remedies in spring, or any other time. The dishonesty of many self-named spring remedies becomes startlingly apparent when their results are compared with the results obtained from this accurate, scientific preparation. Paine's celery compound. The general practice among careful people of purifying the blood and toning up the nerves in the spring has tempted scores of incompetent persons, schemers and clerks, with only a dangerous smattering of medical knowledge, to venture to concoct so-called spring remedies.

In sharp contrast with these risky preparations is the one valuable spring remedy worthy the name in the estimation of competent persons and medical authorities, Paine's celery compound. This widely praised and widely prized remedy really does make people well. It is as far removed, in the minds of cautious men and women, from all other remedies purporting to accomplish equal results, as the north is from the south.

Clear-headed professional men, business men and the great body of hard working brain workers all over the country believe heartily, and with good reason, in Paine's celery compound.

Paine's celery compound gets its staunchest endorsement from physicians and scientific men who were led to verify its claims because of its discoverer, the distinguished Dartmouth college professor, Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D.

Nothing will pull a tired-out, nervous, "run-down" man or woman out of the quagmire of stinking health so promptly and firmly as Paine's celery compound.
